FROM THE WORLD TO YOUR BRAND

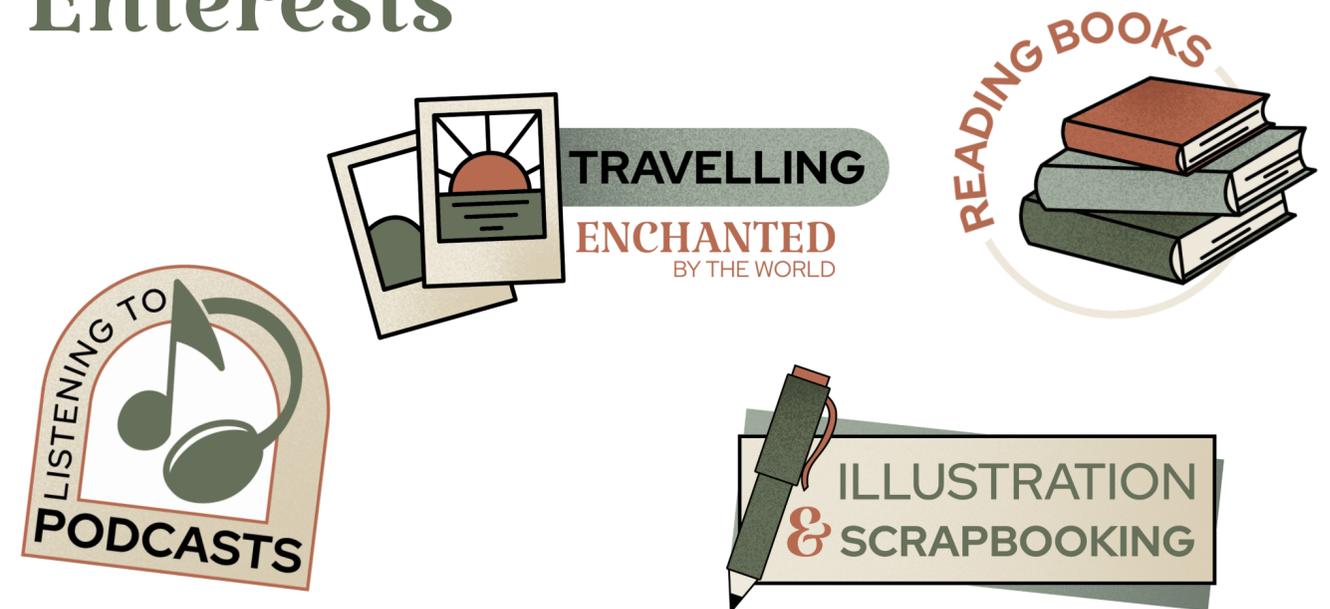

Hello,

I'm Lola Marié. As a digital nomad, I'm always seeking creative inspiration during my travels. Each experience and interaction enhances my understanding of graphic design, further strengthening my expertise. These diverse interactions enrich my knowledge and expand the possibilities for my clients.

Guided by limitless curiosity, every project I take on becomes an artistic exploration. My primary aim is to capture my clients' essence through distinctive and unique designs. My creations strive to showcase my clients' image in an economical and sustainable manner.

SCHOOL PROJECT

An end-of-studies project. This project embodies an inclusive approach aimed at making upcycling and ecological practices accessible to everyone, regardless of their level of knowledge or previous actions.

Fostering accessibility and the sharing of knowledge, this initiative strives to encourage individuals to take tangible steps towards environmental preservation. Offering both tangible resources and a dynamic online space, this concept seeks to inspire and educate, paving the way for a more planet-friendly future.

The arrow symbolizes the path to be taken.

The flag is a reminder of a pennant, but also a step to accomplish.

Liberty

WORK PROJECT

For one year, I worked for a fitness franchise present throughout France. I was able to develop various communication channels and the brand's online presence. My primary responsibility was to create content for social media platforms, where I conceptualized and wrote three posts and two stories per week for an entire year. In addition to managing various communication materials, I played a significant role in shaping the brand's online identity and promoting community engagement through consistent and compelling social media narratives.

The container

PERSONAL PROJECT

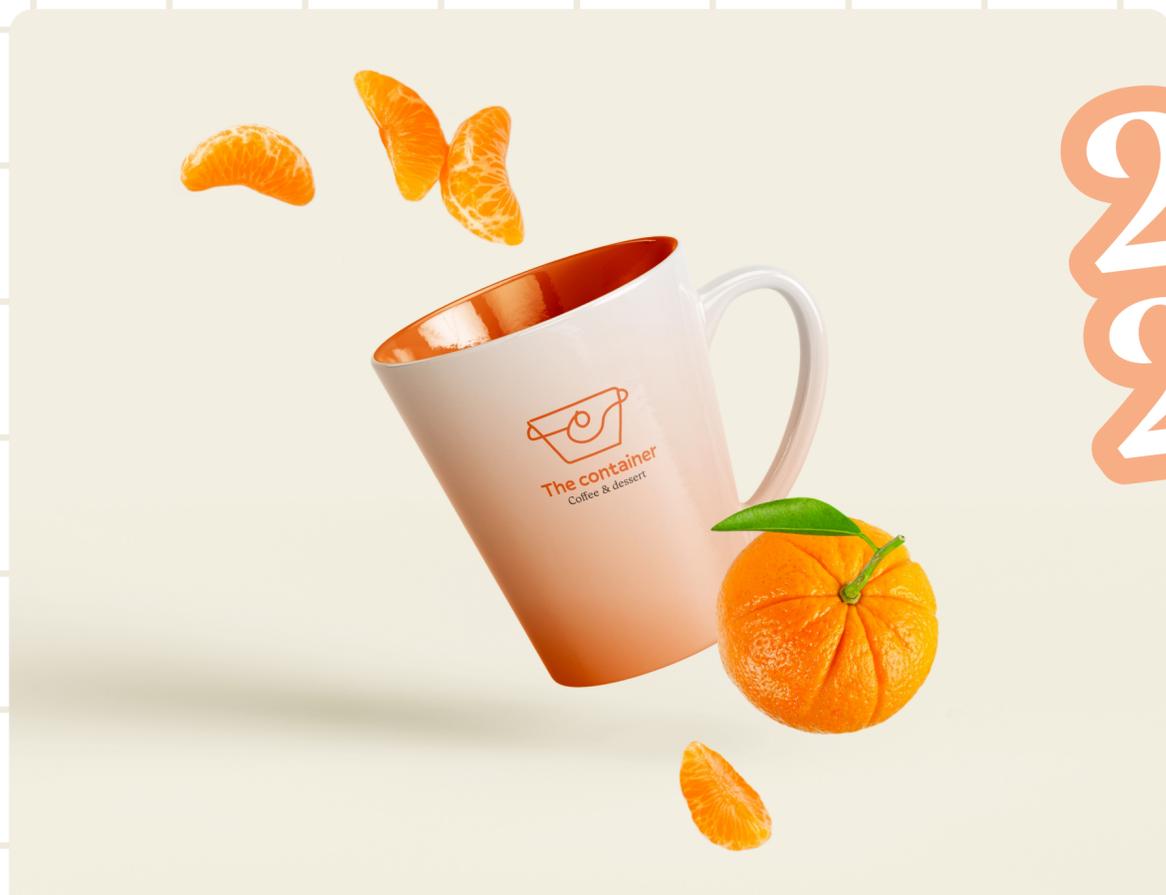

"The Container" is a café located on Jeju Island, South Korea. Nestled amidst tangerine fields, it offers a coffee experience centered around this theme. The building is shaped like a tangerine crate, an iconic symbol of the brand. Various drinks and pastries feature tangerines as a key ingredient.

This project involves an unofficial proposal for a bilingual website in English and Korean, showcasing the brand and its concept. The task at hand was to incorporate the brand's logo and build an entire graphic identity around it.

Exprimer

WORK PROJECT

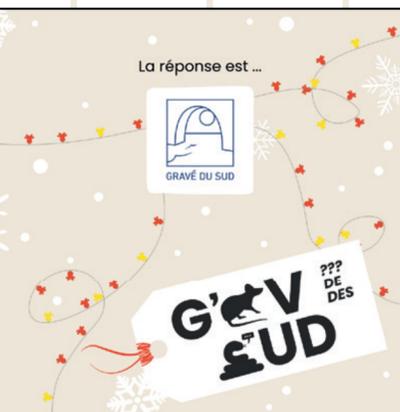

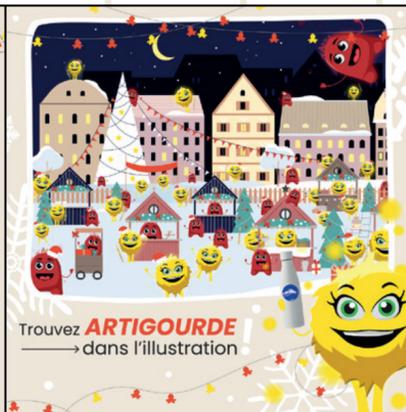

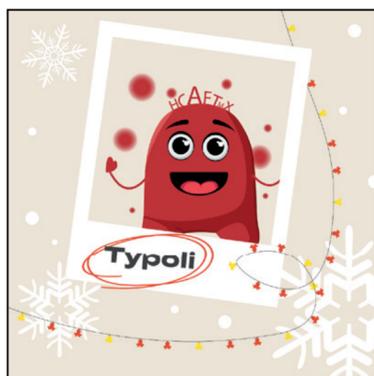

At Exprimer Group of Agencies, I had the opportunity to contribute to an event project. I created social media visuals consisting of illustrations for an Instagram Advent calendar designed for the Christmas season. The calendar featured mini-games and a prize draw to win a water bottle adorned with artwork from a local artist. This collaborative project involved working with a copywriter who provided the associated texts. Together, we developed a fun and interactive guideline to showcase the agency's creative initiatives.

Corporate

WORK PROJECT

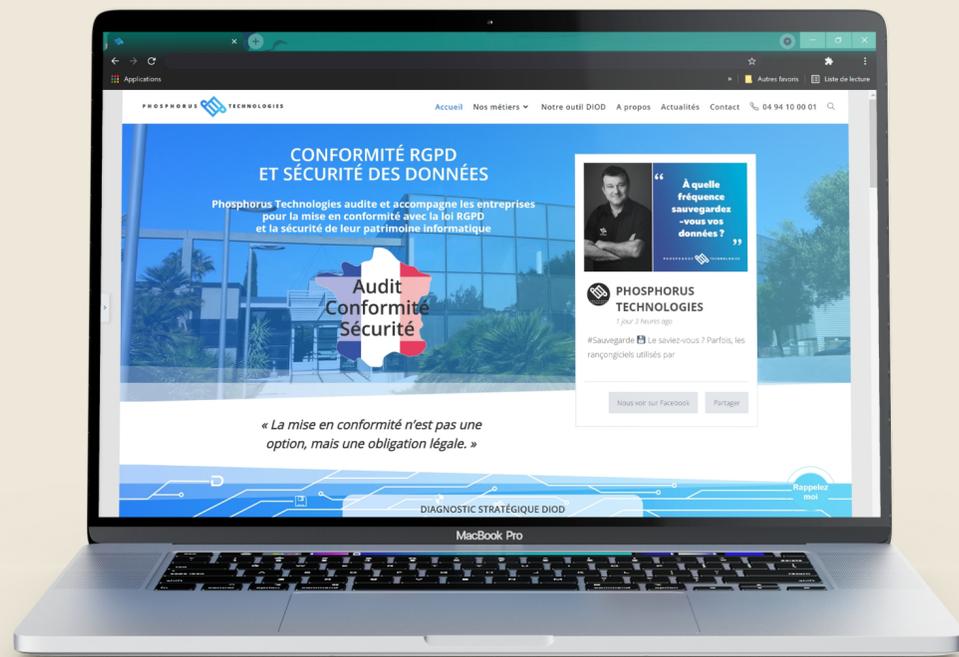

Working at Phosphorus Technologies, I spearheaded a complete graphic redesign of the brand identity, creating all necessary materials for brand communication. I revamped technical documentations for client interactions and took charge of designing the UI/UX for a brand services mobile app.

Collaborating closely with the developer, we successfully delivered an efficient technical solution. Simultaneously, I led the creation of the company's website. This comprehensive project allowed me to blend graphic creativity with technical expertise, strengthening the brand image and enhancing the customer experience.

TV Time

PERSONAL PROJECT

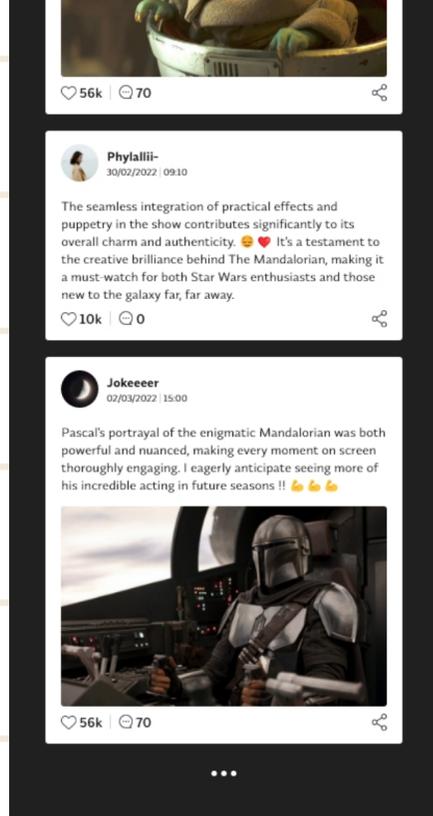

This project aimed at revitalizing the user experience of the TV Time application. Functioning as a comprehensive platform for discovering and tracking movies and series, users can seamlessly rate and review their watched content. The revamped interface focuses on enhancing ergonomics and UI/UX, introducing a modern aesthetic with a black background for optimal screen efficiency.

The revamped layout not only ensures a visually appealing experience but also simplifies navigation.

Corael

SCHOOL PROJECT

As part of a coursework project, I founded Corael, aiming to provide eco-friendly and aesthetically pleasing products for interior enhancement. The brand's mission is to offer decorative and everyday items crafted from recycled materials. With each purchase, customers actively support coral reforestation efforts, contributing to the restoration of coral reefs in our oceans.

This comprehensive project involved my responsibilities across strategy, marketing, and all graphic production, ensuring a holistic approach to sustainability and design.
